

Hey North R. Cultivators team,

We value your partnership, and we're rolling out these monthly reviews so we can both optimize for success. The cannabis market is dynamic, and regular working discussions help us move with it.

As a retailer, we're constantly fighting for customer attention — and to keep them coming back. To do that, we offer a 100% return policy and run a steady stream of discounts and promotions. All with one goal: keep customers happy, and move as much product as we can at a margin that lets us keep the doors open.

That margin number is 50%. When we sell below it, the economics get tough fast.

We're starting to ask our vendors for help covering the cost of discounts and promotions that pull us below 50%, so we can keep moving your product at high velocity. Think of it as a shared marketing expense — much like splitting the cost of a billboard. We need your help to stay competitive in this market.

We're also asking for help on returns that turn out to be product issues, and on products that expire on the shelf.

All of this is collaborative — up for discussion, never forced. If anything in the data on the next pages doesn't sit right, just reply to the email this came on with your questions or the amount you'd approve.

We value this partnership and want to grow with you.

— The AP team at Pinegrove Cannabis Co.

INVENTORY TURNOVER

How quickly your products moved off our shelves this month. Faster turnover puts cash in your pocket sooner. Average and median shelf age (days from receipt to sale) plus the share of units that sold within 30 days of arriving on our shelves.

Metric	Value
Average shelf age at sale	29 days
Median shelf age at sale	24 days
Sold within 30 days of receipt	61%
Sample size	1,094 sales
Inventory Turnover Metrics	1,094 sales observed

PROMOTIONS RUN ON YOUR PRODUCTS

Customer-facing promotions we ran that included your products this month — vendor-specific promos we discussed with you, store-wide promos that swept in your products, and bulk / bundle deals (e.g. 5-for-$40). Customer loyalty, employee discounts, and POS adjustments are separated at the bottom — those are not promotions we ran on your behalf. The goal here is improved inventory velocity for you: more cash in your pocket per year, less inventory risk.

SALES BELOW TARGET MARGIN

We target a 50% gross margin: for every dollar a product sells for, we aim to keep 50¢ after paying you wholesale. The table below shows sales below that target — discounted via promotions we discussed with you and inventory turnover markdowns to move slow-moving stock. The Margin Shortfall column is the dollar gap between what we actually sold each product for and what we needed to sell it for to hit the target margin. The total below represents the dollars we left on the table to move your products.

CREDIT REQUEST

We humbly request a credit based on the data above. For returns and destruction, we've filtered to only product-related issues — defective product, expired stock, customer-unsatisfied — and ask you to cover 100% of those. For co-marketing, we worked hard to move your products, and we ask you to split the margin hit 50/50 with us as a partner.

CREDIT REQUEST	AMOUNT
Returns (100% vendor coverage)	$177.26
Destruction Waste (100% vendor coverage)	$220.27
Co-Marketing (50% of margin shortfall)	$750.00
TOTAL CREDIT REQUEST	$1,147.53

We've generated and attached this credit memo for your accounting department. Reply Approved and the credit applies to your next invoice payable on account. Reply with a specific dollar amount and the memo adjusts to that figure and approves in one step. Or decline with a reason and our buyer will pick the conversation back up with you. You can also take any of these actions in your vendor portal at ourshelf.space. If anything in the data on the previous pages doesn't sit right, just reply with your questions or the amount you'd approve.
